CORRECT CEREMONIOUS FORMS OF ADDRESS

The following are the ceremonious modes of addressing and beginning letters to titled persons and persons holding certain offices

Ambassador, British—Address: 'His Excellency [in other respects according to his rank], H.B.M.'s Ambassador and Plenipotentiary.' Begin: 'Sir,' 'My Lord,' &c., according to rank. Refer to as 'Your Excellency.' An Ambassador's wife, when resident abroad, is sometimes, but not very correctly, designated 'Your Excellency.'

Archbishop—'His Grace the Lord Archbishop of ——.' Begin: 'My Lord Archbishop.' Refer to as 'Your Grace.' In formal documents the Archbishop of Canterbury is addressed as 'The Most Reverend Father in God [here insert his Christian name], by Divine Providence Lord Archbishop of Canterbury, Primate of all England and Metropolitan'; the Archbishop of York as 'The Most Reverend Father in God [Christian name], by Divine permission Lord Archbishop of York, Primate of England and Metropolitan.' But an Irish Archbishop (since 1868) is only 'The Most Reverend the Archbishop of ——' unless he be a temporal peer, in which case he is 'The Right Hon. and Most Rev.'

Archdeacon—'The Venerable the Archdeacon of ——.' Begin: 'Venerable Sir.'

Attorney-General—'The Right Hon. Sir [Christian name and surname], Attorney-General, K.C. (or Q.C.).' Begin: 'Sir.'

Baron—'The Right Hon. Lord ——,' or 'The Lord ——.' Begin: 'My Lord.' Refer to as 'Your Lordship.'

Baron's Daughter—If unmarried, 'The Hon.' [Christian name and surname]; if married to a commoner, 'The Hon. Mrs' [husband's surname]. If married to a Baronet or a Knight, 'The Hon. Lady' [husband's surname]. Begin: 'Madam.' If the wife of a peer, or of the son of a Duke or Marquess, address as such.

Baron's Son—'The Hon.' [Christian name and surname]. Begin: 'Sir.' But eldest sons of Barons in the Peerage of Scotland are usually addressed 'The Hon. the Master of' [peerage title].

Baron's Son's Wife—'The Hon. Mrs' [husband's surname], or, if necessary for distinction, the husband's Christian name should also be used. Begin: 'Madam.' If the daughter of an Earl, Marquess, or Duke, address as such.

Baroness in her own right—'The Right Hon. the Baroness ——'; wife of a baron—'The Right Hon. Lady ——,' or 'The Lady ——.' Begin: 'Madam.' Refer to as 'Your Ladyship.'

Baronet—'Sir [Christian name and surname], Bart.' Begin: 'Sir.'

Baronet's Wife—'Lady' [surname]. Begin: 'Madam.' Refer to as 'Your Ladyship.'

Bishop, Colonial—As Scottish bishop.

Bishop, English—'The Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of London,' or 'The Lord Bishop of London.' Begin: 'My Lord Bishop.' Refer to as 'Your Lordship.' In formal documents a Bishop is 'The Right Rev. Father in God [Christian name], by Divine permission Lord Bishop of ——.'

Bishop, Irish (since 1868)—'The Right Rev. the Bishop of ——.' Begin: 'Right Rev. Sir,' or 'Most Rev. Sir.'

Bishop, Retired—'The Right Rev. Bishop ——,' or 'The Right Rev. —— ——, D.D.' Begin: 'Right Rev. Sir.'

Bishop, Scottish—'The Right Rev. the Bishop of Edinburgh,' or 'The Right Rev. Bishop' [surname]. The Bishop who holds the position of Primus is generally addressed, 'The Most Rev. the Primus.' The use of 'Lord Bishop' and 'My Lord' is incorrect.

Bishops' Wives and Children have no titles.

Cardinal—'His Eminence Cardinal ——.' Begin: 'My Lord Cardinal,' or 'My Lord.' Refer to as 'Your Eminence.'

Clergy—'The Rev.' [Christian name and surname]. Begin: 'Dear Sir' (formerly 'Rev. Sir'). If son of a Duke or Marquess, 'The Rev. Lord' [Christian name and surname]. If the son of an Earl, Viscount, or Baron, 'The Rev. the Hon.' [Christian name and surname]. The Moderator of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland during his year of office is styled 'Right Rev.'; ex-moderators are usually spoken of as 'Very Rev.'

Companion of an Order of Knighthood—The initials, C.B., C.M.G., C.S.I., or C.I.E., as it may be, are subjoined to the ordinary form of address.

Consul, British—'——, Esq., H.B.M.'s Agent and Consul-General,' 'Consul-General,' 'Consul,' or 'Vice-Consul,' as it may be.

Countess—'The Right Hon. the Countess of ——.' Begin: 'Madam.' Refer to as 'Your Ladyship.'

Dean—'The Very Rev. the Dean of ——.' Begin: 'Very Rev. Sir.'

Doctor—The initials DD., M.D., LL.D., Mus.D., are placed after the ordinary form of address, as 'The Rev. John Smith, D.D.' 'John Brown, Esq., LL.D.' But 'The Rev. Dr. Smith,' 'Dr. John Brown,' are also frequently used.

Dowager—On the marriage of a peer or Baronet, the widow of the previous holder of the title becomes 'Dowager,' and is addressed, 'The Right Hon. the Dowager Countess of ——,' 'The Dowager Lady ——.' As more than one Dowager may hold the same title, the term is less used than formerly, the Christian name being employed as a distinction—e.g. 'The Right Hon. Helen Countess of ——.'

Duchess—'Her Grace the Duchess of ——.' Begin: 'Madam.' Refer to as 'Your Grace.' [For Royal Duchess, see Princess.]

Duke—'His Grace the Duke of ——.' Begin: 'My Lord Duke.' Refer to as 'Your Grace.' [For Royal Duke, see Prince.]

Duke's Daughter—'The Lady' [Christian name and surname], the surname being that of her husband if married. Begin: 'Madam.' Refer to as 'Your Ladyship.' If married to a peer, she is addressed according to her husband's rank only. This, however, does not hold in the case of peers by courtesy; and a Duke's daughter married to the eldest son of an Earl, after the prefix 'Lady,' sometimes takes her own Christian name, followed by her husband's courtesy title.

Duke's Eldest Son and his Children—A Duke's eldest son takes his father's second title. This courtesy title is treated as if it were an actual peerage, and his eldest son takes the grandfather's third title, being addressed as if a peer.

Duke's Eldest Son's Wife—As if her husband's courtesy title were an actual peerage.

SOME AMERICAN PRONUNCIATIONS

Eng.

ä — ă (or more exactly various shorter forms of the vowel, not a single form) is very common in place of English ä.

aw — The alternative form ă is common in words such as haunt, saunter, taunt, vaunt.

o — A longer vowel than the normal British one is heard in words like coffee, long, office, officer, soft, Boston, &c. In words such as probable, proper, ă is widely used.

ū — In British English this diphthong is yo͞o, in American English it is i͞o͞o. In some speech it loses its diphthongal character altogether.

Vowels before r:

ā — Two main diphthongs are heard both in England and in America, and in one of these diphthongs the first element approaches a lengthened form of ĕ, so that e.g. vary and Mary suggest drawled forms of very and merry. In America sometimes—particularly in longer words—the second element of the diphthong disappears altogether; the usual pronunciation of Maryland, for instance, is mer'i-lənd, and some speakers also say mer'i for Mary.

Eng.

a — Some Americans tend to make a sound approaching e, so that marry, for instance, approximates to merry.

e — This has a sound suggesting, but not identical with, ŭ in words such as America, conferring, &c.

i — The sound heard in squirrel, stirring, stirrup, and commonly also in syrup, approaches ə.

u — In English, when ur is followed by a vowel, the sound of the u is not ə, but Americans tend to pronounce the same vowel in her and hurry. Other examples are furry, occurring, worry—and also courage.

ar spelt er — In words such as clerk and Derby where English speech preserves an older pronunciation ar, American speech follows the spelling.

-ary, -ory — Americans give words in -ary and -ory a stronger secondary accent and pronounce -ar'i or -er'i and -ōr'i. Examples are necessary, monetary, secondary, temporary, obligatory, peremptory, respiratory.

Words in -ile — In the commoner words Americans pronounce il, as agile (aj'il), fertile (fər'til), fragile, futile, hostile. In infantile, juvenile, mercantile, versatile, both il and īl are heard; and gentile is always pronounced īl.

The following individual words differ in typical British and American pronunciation, though in some cases both pronunciations can be heard in both countries.

THE METRIC SYSTEM

The Greek prefixes (deca, hecto, kilo, myria) denote multiplication.
The Latin prefixes (deci, centi, milli) denote division.

MEASURES OF LENGTH

The METRE (Fr. MÈTRE), the unit of length, originally intended to be the ten-millionth part of a line drawn from the Pole to the Equator, is now more exactly defined as the distance, at the melting point of ice, between two points on a platinum-iridium bar at the International Bureau of Weights and Measures near Paris.

1 Metre = as above.
1 Decametre = 10 metres.	1 Decimetre = $\frac{1}{10}$th of a metre.
1 Hectometre = 100 ,,	1 Centimetre = $\frac{1}{100}$th ,,
1 Kilometre = 1000 ,,	1 Millimetre = $\frac{1}{1000}$th ,,
1 Myriametre = 10,000 ,,

SQUARE MEASURE

The ARE, the unit of surface measure, is a square the side of which is ten metres long.

1 Are = 100 square metres.	1 Déciare = $\frac{1}{10}$th of an are.
1 Decare = 10 ares.	1 Centiare = $\frac{1}{100}$th of an are,
1 Hectare = 100 ,,	or 1 square metre (mètre carré).

MEASURES OF WEIGHT

The GRAM(ME), the unit of weight, originally defined as the weight of a cubic centimetre of distilled water at 4° Centigrade, is $\frac{1}{1000}$th part of the mass of the International Prototype Kilogram(me), a cylinder of platinum-iridium.

1 Gram(me) = as above.
1 Decagram(me) = 10 gram.	1 Decigram(me = $\frac{1}{10}$th of a gram.
1 Hectogram(me) = 100 ,,	1 Centigram(me) = $\frac{1}{100}$th ,,
1 Kilogram(me),	1 Milligram(me) = $\frac{1}{1000}$th ,,
or kilo = 1000 ,,	1 Tonne or metric ton = 1000 kilos.
1 Myriagram(me) = 10,000 ,,

$\frac{1}{2}$ kilogram(me) is called a livre.

MEASURES OF CAPACITY, DRY AND LIQUID

The LITRE, the unit of the measures of capacity, dry and liquid, originally defined as the volume of a cubic decimetre, is the volume of a kilogram of pure, air-free water at temperature of maximum density.

1 Litre = as above.	1 Decilitre = $\frac{1}{10}$th of a litre.
1 Decalitre = 10 litres.	1 Centilitre = $\frac{1}{100}$th ,,
